INDEPENDENT AUDITORS' REPORT

To the Board of Directors and Stockholders of Crestwood Apartment Owners Corp.:

Opinion

We have audited the accompanying financial statements of Crestwood Apartment Owners Corp. (the Corporation), which comprise the balance sheets as of December 31, 2025 and 2024, and the related statements of operations, stockholders' equity (deficit) and cash flows for the years then ended, and the related notes to the financial statements.

In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Corporation as of December 31, 2025 and 2024, and the results of its operations and its cash flows for the years then ended in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

Basis for Opinion

We conducted our audits in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. Our responsibilities under those standards are further described in the Auditors' Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Statements section of our report. We are required to be independent of the Corporation and to meet our other ethical responsibilities in accordance with the relevant ethical requirements relating to our audit. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion.

Responsibilities of Management for the Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, and for the design, implementation, and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

In preparing the financial statements, management is required to evaluate whether there are conditions or events, considered in the aggregate, that raise substantial doubt about the Corporation's ability to continue as a going concern within one year after the date that the financial statements are available to be issued.

Auditors' Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Statements

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditors' report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance but is not absolute assurance and therefore is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control. Misstatements are considered material if there is a substantial likelihood that, individually or in the aggregate, they would influence the judgment made by a reasonable user based on the financial statements.

In performing an audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, we:

- Exercise professional judgment and maintain professional skepticism throughout the audit.
- Identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error, and design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks. Such procedures include examining, on a test basis, evidence regarding the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements.
- Obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Corporation's internal control. Accordingly, no such opinion is expressed.
- Evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluate the overall presentation of the financial statements.
- Conclude whether, in our judgment, there are conditions or events, considered in the aggregate, that raise substantial doubt about the Corporation's ability to continue as a going concern for a reasonable period of time.

We are required to communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit, significant audit findings, and certain internal control related matters that we identified during the audit.

Omission of Required Supplementary Information about Future Major Repairs and Replacements

Management has omitted the information about the estimates of future costs of major repairs and replacements that accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America require to be presented to supplement the basic financial statements. Such missing information, although not a part of the basic financial statements, is required by the Financial Accounting Standards Board, which considers it to be an essential part of financial reporting for placing the basic financial statements in an appropriate operational, economic, or historical context. Our opinion on the basic financial statements is not affected by this missing information.

CRESTWOOD APARTMENT OWNERS CORP.

(A Cooperative Housing Corporation)

NOTES to FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

December 31, 2025 and 2024

1. Organization:

Crestwood Apartment Owners Corp. (the Corporation), a cooperative housing corporation, was incorporated in the State of New York on September 19, 1990. The Corporation owns the building located at 124-16 84th Road, Kew Gardens, New York, consisting of 71 residential apartments and one superintendent apartment.

A Board of Directors governs the affairs of the Corporation. Directors, as such, receive no compensation for their services. The Board of Directors retains a management company, to provide certain administrative and bookkeeping services.

2. Date of Management Review:

In preparing the financial statements, the Corporation has evaluated events and transactions for potential recognition or disclosure through June 16, 2026, the date the financial statements were available to be issued.

3. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies:

Basis of Presentation:

The accompanying financial statements are prepared on the accrual basis of accounting, in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

Pervasiveness of Estimates:

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Accordingly, actual results could differ from those estimates.

Cash:

The Corporation considers all highly liquid investments with little to no exposure to credit, market and liquidity risks, with original maturities of three months or less to be classified as cash.

Concentration of Credit Risk:

The Corporation maintains its cash with major financial institutions. Balances, at times, may exceed Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) limits currently $250,000 per financial institution. The Corporation performs periodic evaluations of the relative credit standing of these financial institutions and also evaluates its balance with each institution in order to limit the amount of credit exposure. The Corporation has not experienced any losses in such accounts as of the date of the auditors' report.

Shareholder and Other Receivables:

The Corporation's policy is to initiate summary non-payment proceedings against the individual or entity whose assessments are 60 days in arrears. Shareholder and other receivables at the balance sheet date represent maintenance and other charges due from shareholders. The Corporation has a first lien upon the shares owned by shareholders for indebtedness arising under the provisions of the proprietary lease. The Corporation believes that the fair market value of delinquent shares is sufficient to cover charges in arrears. All shareholder and other receivables have been deemed collectible at both December 31, 2025 and 2024.

Land, Building, Improvements and Equipment:

Land, building, improvements and equipment are stated at cost. Capitalized amounts include expenditures, which materially extend the useful life of the existing property. Costs associated with repair and maintenance of property are expensed as incurred. Depreciation is provided using the straight-line method over the estimated useful life of the asset.

Long-Lived Assets:

The Corporation reviews real estate assets for possible impairment whenever events or circumstances indicate the carrying amount of an asset may not be recoverable. If there is an indication of impairment, management prepares an estimate of future cash flows (undiscounted and without interest charges) expected to result from the use of the asset and its eventual disposition. If these cash flows are less than the carrying amount of the asset, an impairment loss is recognized to write down the asset to its estimated fair value. Preparation of estimated future cash flows is inherently subjective and is based on management's best estimate of assumptions concerning expected future conditions. Through December 31, 2025 and 2024, management believes no indicators of impairment exist.

Debt Issuance Costs:

Debt issuance costs are amortized on the straight-line method over the term of the loan. Amortization on the interest method would not be materially different. Deferred costs of $85,574 were incurred in connection with the mortgage note as discussed in Note 7.

Maintenance Charges:

Maintenance charges are based on an annual budget determined by the Board of Directors. Shareholders are billed monthly based on their respective shareholdings. Monthly maintenance charges represent multiple performance obligations, which, on a standalone basis, are not considered separate and distinct and therefore have been deemed to be a single performance obligation. Revenue is recognized as the performance obligation is satisfied at transaction amounts expected to be collected. The performance obligation for maintenance charges is satisfied over time on a daily pro-rata basis using the input method in accordance with ASC Topic 606, Revenue from Contracts with Customers (ASC 606).

Deferred Revenue:

Revenue is recognized as the performance obligation is satisfied at transaction amounts expected to be collected. Deferred revenue consists of prepaid monthly maintenance charges and other shareholder fees and has been recorded as the Corporation has the right to receive payment in advance for the satisfaction of performance obligations in accordance with ASC 606.

Transfer Fees:

It is the Corporation's policy to charge transfer fees to shareholders upon the sale of shares applicable to their apartment equal to $6 per share. Transfer fees are recognized as revenue as the performance obligation is satisfied at transaction amounts expected to be collected. The performance obligation for transfer fees is satisfied on the closing date of the apartment where the shares are legally transferred in accordance with ASC 606.

Lease Income:

The Corporation has adopted Accounting Standards Codification Topic 842, Leases (ASC 842), which requires the Corporation to establish a comprehensive policy for lease accounting.

The Corporation classifies its lease agreements into short-term and long-term operating leases. Short-term leases are those with a term of twelve months or less, and lease income from these is recognized based on the contractual amounts billed each month.

For long-term leases, lease income is recognized on straight-line basis over the lease term. This method evenly spreads the total lease payments, including any fixed escalations, incentives, and other lease modifications, across the lease duration, regardless of the actual timing of lease payments as required by ASC 842.

Investment in NCB Class "B1" Stock:

The Corporation's investment in Class "B1" Capital Stock of National Cooperative Bank, N.A. (NCB), the mortgage holder, as described in Note 7, qualified the Corporation to become eligible for a Federal exclusion to the payment of New York State mortgage tax. Additionally, the Corporation anticipates annual dividends as well as the ultimate return of its investment. This security is not publicly traded and is subject to certain rules and restrictions pursuant to NCB's Federal Charter. As a result, this investment was classified as held-to-maturity.

Licenses and permits	94	625
	$ 6,762	$ 9,487

13. Income Taxes:

Pursuant to a 1996 United States Tax Court decision, the Corporation prepares its tax returns under the provisions of Subchapter T of the Internal Revenue Code. Subchapter T requires the allocation of patronage and non-patronage source income. In addition, Subchapter T provides that expenses attributable to the generation of patronage income (i.e., income from business done with or for patrons or tenant cooperators) are deductible only to the extent of patronage income. The Corporation believes that all of its income is patronage income within the meaning of Subchapter T. The Corporation also qualified under Section 216 of the Internal Revenue Code, which permits tenant-shareholders to deduct their proportionate share of real estate taxes and mortgage interest that is deductible by the Corporation on their own tax returns.

The Corporation had a net operating loss (NOL) for income tax purposes and was not subject to federal income tax as a result. In addition, the Corporation had net operating loss carryforwards of approximately $2,775,000, which includes $1,845,000 of losses incurred before the year 2018 that can be used to offset 100% of taxable income. The NOLs will expire between 2026 and 2037. Losses of $930,000 incurred after the year 2017 are subject to the NOL criteria based upon the year incurred.

In 2020, the CARES Act temporarily and retroactively changed the NOL rules. NOLs generated in 2018, 2019, and 2020 are not subject to the 80% of income limitation if they are exhausted during the five-year carryback period or during 2018, 2019, or 2020. NOLs carried over from pre-Tax Cuts and Jobs Act (TCJA) years are not subject to the limitation.

In summary, the Corporation's NOLs generated prior to 2018 were subject to the pre-2018 rules, which allowed for a maximum carryback of two years and a maximum carryforward of 20 years. After the TCJA, the Corporation could only use 80% of its NOLs to offset taxable income, and carryback was no longer allowed. With the enactment of the CARES Act in 2020, the Corporation is now able to carryback NOLs for up to five years, carry them forward indefinitely, and utilize 80% or 100% of NOLs depending on the tax year.

The Corporation is also subject to certain state and local minimum franchise taxes based on different methods and is imposed at whichever method produces the largest amount of tax.

The Corporation has evaluated the tax position taken or expected to be taken in the course of preparing its tax returns to determine whether the tax positions are more likely than not sustainable upon examination by the applicable taxing authorities based on the technical merits of the tax position and then recognizing the tax benefit that is more likely than not realizable. Tax positions not deemed to meet the more likely than not threshold would be recorded as a tax expense in the current reporting period. Management believes it has no uncertain tax positions or interest and penalty that qualify for either recognition or disclosure in the financial statements.

With few exceptions, the Corporation is no longer subject to U.S. federal, state and local income tax examinations by tax authorities for years before 2022.

14. Future Major Repairs and Replacements:

The Corporation has not conducted a study to determine the remaining useful lives of the components of the property and current estimates of the costs of major repairs and replacements that may be required in the future. When replacement funds are needed to meet future needs for major repairs and replacements, the Corporation has the right to increase regular maintenance, pass special assessments, or delay major repairs and replacements until funds are available. The effect on future assessments has not been determined at this time.
